

Intelcan Achieves ISO 9001:2000 Registration

Ottawa, Canada, 02 October 2003 - Intelcan Technosystems Inc., in keeping with its commitment to deliver products which incorporate technical excellence and highest quality to its customers, has successfully made the transition to the ISO9001: 2000 quality management system standard.

In August 2003, Intelcan subjected its business and management practices to the scrutiny of the quality registrar SGS International Certification Services. SGS subsequently awarded Intelcan its registration for the fifth consecutive year. Intelcan has demonstrated its ability to provide systems that meet customer requirements and applicable regulatory requirements, aiming to enhance customer satisfaction. Conformance to this quality management system is becoming a requirement for prequalification in many international competitions related to aviation systems procurements.
